The piloting in terms of Unibus project was to observe how the users (Companies, Teachers/HEIs and students) were able use the Unibus website and the mobile application. Thus, the piloting period started after the Unibus Website and Mobile application has been made ready to use.

The target audience for piloting was companies, teachers/HEIs and students. The Companies who were asked to participate in the piloting was selected from different sectors such as Information Technologies, Confection Production, Fast Consumption Goods, Energy and so on. The participating companies were asked to register to the system, create profiles and create challenges by themselves.

The teachers were from different Universities and were contacted by the partners of the project and were from different fields of study to get a broad view about the usefulness and the ease of use of the platform. The teachers were then asked to look through some example challenges and some example student response/solution/ideas. The teachers were than asked to look through the created Idea Assessment system and asked to evaluate the usefulness and the value of the assessment system.

The students were contacted from both partner universities and the business partners. Again, they were from different bachelor's fields and different interest ideas. The students were also asked to register into the system, and also, they were asked to take a look at example challenges and they were asked to try answer a few of the challenges to see if there were any possible bugs or problems they would face while using the platform. The students were than asked about how difficult or easy was the use of the platform and how useful they found the created system.
